

Crisis Response Protocol for Suicide Ideation and Attempts

Behavioral Health Services
University of the Incarnate Word

For faculty and staff of University of the Incarnate Word

This protocol provides guidance to faculty, staff, administrators, and other University of the Incarnate Word (“UIW” or the “University”) employees on how to respond to students experiencing suicidal ideation or suicide attempts. It is intended solely for informational purposes and does not replace professional medical advice. Although specific campus officials are designated to manage such situations, all University personnel are expected to maintain a working knowledge of these procedures. UIW aims to respond to crises in a consistent manner; however, the specific facts and circumstances of each situation may necessitate modifications to the actions outlined in this protocol by trained personnel.

Introduction

According to the National Mental Health Association, more than 1,000 university students die by suicide each year. Data from the National Data on Campus Suicide and Depression indicate that approximately one in every twelve U.S. university students report having made a suicide plan. Tragically, no institution of higher education is immune to these realities. This guide represents a comprehensive effort to address suicide risk among university students and to promote a coordinated, informed response across the campus community.

If you encounter a student who is contemplating or threatening suicide, you are not expected to manage the situation alone. Knowledgeable and well-trained professionals are available to support both the student at risk and the faculty or staff member responding to the concern.

Purpose

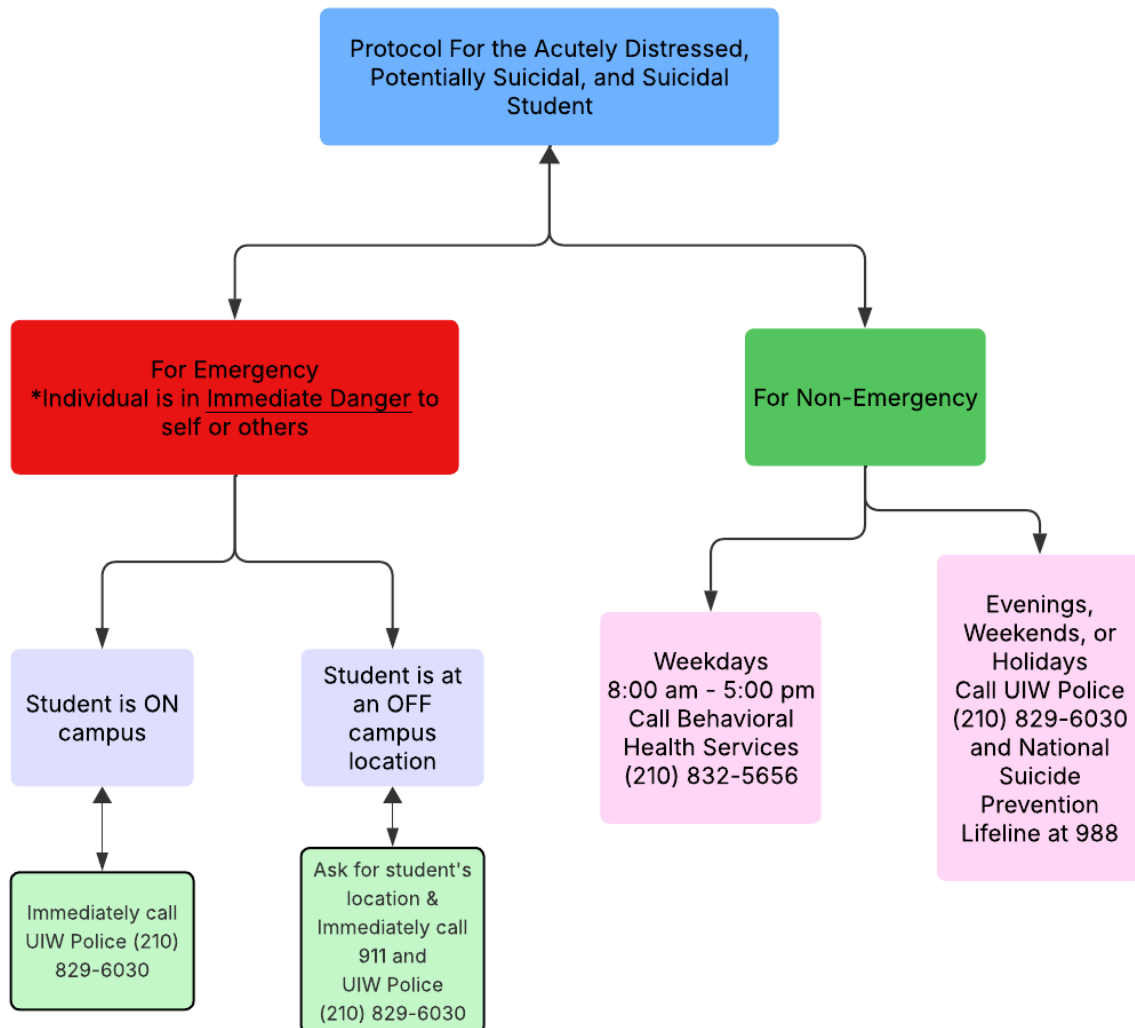

When a student is facing a crisis, the entire University community may be affected. Therefore, it is essential that a clear and coordinated protocol exists to protect the safety and well-being of the student in crisis, as well as that of the broader campus community. This protocol is intended to serve as a guide when a student is experiencing a crisis or exhibiting behaviors that may indicate emotional or psychological distress.

This protocol also supports the creation of a safe and supportive environment in which members of the UIW community feel cared for, and where mental health is recognized as a critical component of student well-being and academic success.

Note: UIW faculty and staff should be familiar with their immediate response obligations; however, they should not make determinations regarding treatment or care unless specifically designated by the University. Accordingly, the response undertaken by UIW Police Department (UIWPD), Behavioral Health Services, or other first-responder agencies may vary based on the specific facts and circumstances of each situation.

Crisis Response Protocol Flowchart

The following flowchart outlines the basic protocol for responding to a student experiencing suicidal ideation, a suicide attempt, or another mental health crisis. If there is any uncertainty as to whether a situation constitutes an emergency or a non-emergency, it should be treated as an emergency.

Key: On campus: UIW's Broadway Campus, Feik School of Pharmacy, St. Anthony's HS
Off campus: Rosenberg School of Optometry, School of Rehab Sciences, School of Osteopathic Medicine

First Responder: UIW Police Department (UIWPD) serves as the first responder for UIW's main campus at 4301 Broadway St., San Antonio, Texas 78209, as well as the Feik School of Pharmacy and St. Anthony's Catholic High School. The San Antonio Police Department (SAPD) is the first responder for all other UIW campuses, including the School of Osteopathic Medicine, Rosenberg School of Optometry, and the School of Rehabilitative Sciences.

After-Hours Support: UIW Behavioral Health Services (BHS) operates only when classes are in session. When BHS is closed, contact UIWPD at (210) 829-6030 or SAPD by calling 911. Additionally, the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline is available 24/7 at 988 or 1-800-273-TALK (8255) to help connect individuals to local mental health resources.

Suicide-Prevention Protocol and Procedures

All University of the Incarnate Word faculty and staff are required to follow these procedures. In cases where there is uncertainty as to whether a situation constitutes an emergency, the situation must be handled as an emergency.

Non-Emergency Response Protocol

While these are defined as “non-emergency” situations for purposes of these guidelines, if you are ever in doubt whether a situation constitutes an emergency or not, always treat it as an emergency. Moreover, because a scenario is listed here as non-emergency, it does not mean the same scenario cannot be considered or give rise to an emergency. Accordingly, when in doubt, always follow emergency procedures.

Confidentiality Concerns

HIPAA

The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (“HIPAA”) Privacy Rule provides consumers with important privacy rights and protections as it relates to an individual’s health information. However, HIPAA recognizes that in times of crisis, certain health information may need to be shared to ensure an individual receives appropriate care. Still, information to friends or family of an individual in crisis should be managed by approved personnel or law enforcement agents, as it is iterated in this guide. Additional information is located here: HIPAA Privacy Rule and Sharing Information Related to Mental Health.

If you are concerned about your obligations under HIPAA, or have questions or concerns related to a disclosure, please contact the Office of Quality Assurance and Compliance at (210) 802-3244 or compliance@uiwtx.edu.

FERPA

University of the Incarnate Word employees who respond to crises must remain aware that students have a right to privacy and that, in some instances, they may not wish to have information shared with others. The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (“FERPA”) protects the privacy of Education Records, as defined by the statute, for Eligible Students. Note that some University records created during a crisis may become Education Records under FERPA. Accordingly, an employee should never share private information without the student’s consent, or without consulting the Office of the Registrar or Office of General Counsel.

Note, however, that FERPA provides an exception to disclosure in the event of a health or safety emergency. Accordingly, and as provided for in this resource, employees assisting with a crisis may provide student information to behavioral health or law enforcement professionals in the assistance of a crisis. However, no other information should be shared with an outside party unless designated by university policy or procedure or in accordance with this guide.

If you are concerned about your obligations under FERPA, please contact the Office of the Registrar at (210) 829-6006, or the Office of General Counsel, at uiwogc@uiwtx.edu.
